GRANT SUPPORT

- January 2012- Parent-Child Interaction Therapy for Treating Oppositional Preschoolers with Callous-

- January 2013 Unemotional Traits
 USF College of Behavioral and Community Sciences Internal Grant Awards Program, Role: Principal Investigator (1 year, $7500)
 This grant provided funding to support the development of an adapted parent training intervention for treating callous-unemotional conduct problems in young children. It also supported testing the feasibility and acceptability of the intervention with families of young children with callous-unemotional conduct problems in an open trial pilot study.
- May 2011 Faculty International Travel Grant University of South Florida Research Council ($2249)
- April 2011 Parent-Child Interaction Therapy for Treating Oppositional Preschoolers with Callous-Unemotional Traits
 USF College of Behavioral and Community Sciences Internal Grant Awards Program, Role: Principal Investigator ($3800)
 This grant provided funding for the PI to complete a Therapist Training Workshop on Parent-Child Interaction Therapy in preparation for the pilot study described above.
- May 2010- Subtypes of Callous-Unemotional Traits in Incarcerated Youth
 May 2012 USF Neurosciences Collaborative Grant, Role: Principal Investigator (2 years, $100,000)
 This grant provided funding to test whether there are two trajectories to callousunemotional (CU) traits in incarcerated youth that are underpinned by distinct emotional profiles. This cross-sectional study aimed to test whether incarcerated delinquent youth high on CU traits, but grouped into primary and secondary subtypes according to their maltreatment histories and co-occurring psychopathology, show distinct neuropsychological, psychophysiological, and neuroendocrine profiles.
- 5/1/10- A Pilot Study of Subtypes of Callous-Unemotional Traits in Maltreated Youth
 4/30/12 USF New Researcher Grant, Role: Principal Investigator (1 year, $10,000)
 This pilot study examines whether there are two types of callous unemotional traits in maltreated children, each with divergent patterns of emotional processing. Computerized neurocognitive testing and measurement of stress hormone levels was completed with maltreated children between the ages of 6 and 10.
- 1/7/10 – Personality and Brain Responses to Visual Stimuli (PI: Christopher Patrick) 8/31/12 NIMH RC1 MH089727, Role: Principal Investigator (.10 FTE, subcontract, $247, 138)
 This research was designed to improve the methods for assessing personality disorders and impulse control problems in criminal offenders, and advance understanding of dispositional variables that contribute to the development and maintenance of criminal behavior. The research aimed to increase the field's understanding of processes that underlie the most common types of problems exhibited by criminal offenders, and contribute to improved methods for assessing impulse control disorders and more effective approaches to treating and preventing disorders of this kind.
- 2007- Variants of Psychopathy and Physical Health: The Role of Stress Reactivity 2009 American Psychology & Law Society Interdisciplinary Grant, Role: Co-Principal Investigator ($5,000)
 This research examines whether primary and secondary variants of psychopathy exist in a sample of college undergraduates. This study tests whether psychopathy variants are underpinned by distinct emotional profiles, as measured by neuroendocrine responding during a social stress paradigm.
- June 2005 Travel Fellowship
 International Society for Research in Child and Adolescent Psychopathology
